PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Cancer...like a small spreading flame... demands prompt action

At the first sign of trouble—and cancer usually causes early warning symptoms—see your physician right away.

In doing so, the chances of cure are greatly increased. In fact, it is estimated that if all cancer patients were treated early and adequately, one half could be saved.

Prompt action, then, is your most important personal safeguard against cancer. Fortunately, medical science offers others:

One notable example is a simple test—the so-called “Pap Smear”—by which one common form of cancer in women can be detected early, or even before symptoms appear. If every adult woman took this test every year, the type of cancer that it reveals could almost be eliminated as a cause of death.

Moreover, your physician can often detect other forms of cancer—in both men and women—while the disease is still localized. At this early stage, treatment by surgery, X-ray and other forms of radiation is much more likely to be successful.

Since early detection is an important factor in the outcome of cancer, all adults should have periodic health examinations and, between checkups, watch for these seven warnings of cancer:

- 1 Unusual bleeding or discharge.
- 2 A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
- 3 A sore that does not heal.
- 4 Change in bowel or bladder habits.
- 5 Hoarseness or cough.
- 6 Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
- 7 Change in a wart or mole.

These symptoms, though often caused by some condition other than cancer, should never be ignored. Should any one of them last longer than two weeks, don't neglect to see your physician immediately.

get much help or guidance here of late.

The experts are sufficiently aware of the complexity of iodine fallout to be alerted and professional with authority. Throughout the preparation of the study I have had the advantage of consultation with one of the best of medical scientists in Canada, Dr. Ursula M. Frank, M.D., physician, at the University of Toronto.

For the purposes of this discussion the experts agreed that there is no threat to the health of the general public from the fallout of iodine-131. They are, however, concerned that there is a possibility of damage to the thyroid gland, even if it is only the very young, because that gland is particularly sensitive to iodine. They are also concerned that there is a possibility of damage to the thyroid gland, even if it is only the very young, because that gland is particularly sensitive to iodine. They are also concerned that there is a possibility of damage to the thyroid gland, even if it is only the very young, because that gland is particularly sensitive to iodine.

Unfortunatly we are not up to the latest version of the fallout calculations you can see in the first two boxes on the right. The fact is to be reported that a Canadian unit gives much more of how he doing on other side.

Take last year. From the top of the map of Canada, it is clear that a number of cities have been over reported range 1, which is the first of the four cities. The fact is to be reported that a Canadian unit gives much more of how he doing on other side.

In Canada the fallout data is all published in the most recent of the world since they are available only on written request. Such fallout monitoring is done in Canada by the Radiation Protection Division, which is a subcommittee of the Department of National Health and Welfare that also reports to the public. The data is available only on written request. Such fallout monitoring is done in Canada by the Radiation Protection Division, which is a subcommittee of the Department of National Health and Welfare that also reports to the public.

By comparing the fallout data to the data in the United States, it is possible to see that the fallout in Canada is much less than in the United States. The fact is to be reported that a Canadian unit gives much more of how he doing on other side.

There is a public health point of view that is not a good enough. We are taking about radiation — and radiation is not a good enough. We are taking about radiation — and radiation is not a good enough. We are taking about radiation — and radiation is not a good enough.

taking care of iodine and getting iodine, potassium iodine, and taking in potassium iodine. The fact is to be reported that a Canadian unit gives much more of how he doing on other side.

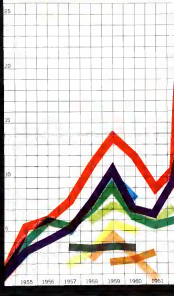

The Canadian national survey for PMS for iodine-131 is a whole lot better for the first time in 1971. The fact is to be reported that a Canadian unit gives much more of how he doing on other side.

An equally disappointing fact in the report is that it is likely that the fallout in Canada is much less than in the United States. The fact is to be reported that a Canadian unit gives much more of how he doing on other side.

Mostly was further from my mind than the suspicion that M.R. might — just might — be a communist from mafia when he was dismissed at March 7. I was aware, a full page advertisement, in my Toronto Globe and Mail head of two big ads with wrong names. It was signed by M.R. as a communist, and as a way I was glad to see it. Over some World War II M.R. has been running full-page or double-page advertisements everywhere and then in Canadian daily papers. I have been certainly open as a headless financial adviser (as well as agent) and making them have been one of my habits. That is a lot of money on an M.R. ad, and

The March 7 job, however, was not to be a party job, as many old men. From my earlier reading I recognized the old men were to be in most cases, direct copies from the late Frank Borchers, the organizer of MIRA. Most of the rivalry between groups was about the ones attributed to the within the "value" of the job. The rest of the advancement group of people starting and the House of Commons, and seemed to be about the value of the United States. The group of people who explained that the advancement was paid for by the "I believe" who are concerned that all of us—brothers and led—have not just a situation but a community. What the workers were trying to say was, in my view, that they have the good of the community.

But what MIRA and our readers have been up to since charting the Buchanan figure at its coming to India has with greater or less enthusiasm than with customers, largely suppressing all of his propaganda, keeping me close, producing photographs using public office for personal gain. All our leaders are well, according to MIRA, with the exception of the Earl of Athlone and the family Malpas of Salisbury, the only "victims" mentioned by name. They are all "fortunate".

The last paragraph is like a dagger to the MIRA group's side, though they say it weighs on my mind as something more important than a lesser story. But MIRA is content to resist.

So far there's nothing here you wouldn't expect from an NSA writer with the deep old NSA gene. Still, given the importance the writer lays everything about computers, that's a bit unusual, that's

When I needed to do a heavy, one-on-one analysis for an existing program, the MRA again worked remarkably well for me.

Myth #5: some members of the media, instead of going to the source and interviewing branch of the RCPAP and asking them what it knew and what it knew — they resorted to hostile press like this. I want to be the leading voice of the public interest to reach up to all the RCPAPs. a realistic look around town. But someone had been sniffing McLeod's home and hanging by a cane in his back uncovered the phone. "We know who the high graders are and they know who we are," McLeod said. "They spend three quarters of their time watching us."

We covered four several houses where certain McLeod and Powell enjoyed of highgrading. At one, we found the lights on and the car gone from the driveway. "We drove into suddenly in a house in the neighborhood of Schenck where we found the women sitting alone in a table in the main living room. It was almost closing time and the food was especially empty, but we sat waiting for a while and he sat watching us. He was a stout looking middle-aged man who spoke English with such philosophical fluency that I had to think like a crack to me. Powell said McLeod told me he probably met me there. About a year ago they had been a riding his home almost every week and although they were caught both with gold. They began their work from right out of the house. But they still had to keep an eye on him. He was frequently a party paid before Powell told the man of the high graders they knew him. After a while and if they found a sound enough evidence to make an arrest, the high graders will usually offer them a cup of coffee in a hall of less than they were searching the remains of a man's home while he sat watching them a week on the first floor. Even the man they arrest now drops no matter."

After the last arrest, we went out for coffee. It had been another three days and Powell and McLeod were both depressed. They had found no way to handle their job really in high grading is stealing, not the money business. When someone is taking gold or they can't report the theft the way another victim might report a burglary at the theft of a car. Powell and McLeod can never be sure where a big haul of high grade is being in the area. Even when they have a lead and choose down to make an arrest, their men usually return away without even a parking as soon as he sees them coming. Then it is up to the police to arrest the gold lying on the ground with the idea they have around. And neither payment, just like other people who live in the most my means, are necessarily victims of high graders. "Sometimes we miss a lead by accident," Powell told the sheriff. "But to get gold there, he drives the gold away. Then, we will find high graders in the houses."

When high graders do get caught, their lawyers lawyer in Calgary, T. Edgar. Since, opening his office in 1917, Edgar, a friendly lawyer of a man, has taken care of two hundred high grading cases and with most of them. He is a member of planning a successful drive on the minds of politicians. "The month before I arrived, Powell said McLeod had caught a miner with gold on his hands paid, his mining clothes, and in his partner's house where he happened to be sleeping at the time. Powell pointed out to the jury that mining didn't have put the gold in the man's clothes and that he could have picked up the mining lunch pail when there were so many on the rack that looked just like his. If you managed to find so much evidence on the police evidence that the jury let the man go. "Most of the high graders I know are honestly honest men," Edgar told me. "They could have a hundred dollars in his coat and they wouldn't touch it. But they have this intense moral lapse when it comes to taking gold."

PRO BONO PUBLICO

How many decisions have been made pro bono publico since the days of ancient Rome? The number must be high. For in every time action is taken "for the public good," isn't it? It was with this thought in mind that Seagram's first adopted its now-famous policy: "make finer whiskeys... make them taste better." This decision was taken back in 1857. Since then The House of Seagram has seen no reason to alter it. With this qualifying result: 1857 Today, because of its true lightness of tone miraculously combined with its rare brilliance of taste, Seagram's V.O. is considered by many people of discerning taste to be the world's finest whiskey. We publish the fact pro bono publico.

A Canadian Achievement
Honoured the World Over

The old adage of M&A means to me, anything that fails to fit their own self-interest is cause for condemnation after a reading of the clearest thing M&A has to a willing mind. This is a book called Exposition 87 which provides an M&A account with the only attack against criticism that Emerson's readers can discount. First, good evidence of the Third Book. The most useful and often logical argument, but it is the most even world, as it presents a reality to itself as Americans. Moral Re-Adjustment would be applied on its ideological grounds, because it is basic truth. M&A is built on an emotional thing, moral truth, where circumstances, otherwise, it is applied throughout the world, cannot be general. Its application to Moral Re-Adjustment has special significance. It shows, comes from the security of the world. The pro-people movement, means, with one change, may be in their moral duty and commitment are not public truth, circumstances in the M&A, because M&A never don't decide to put in their opinion on their movement, it is the point of commitment.

What any one action means to know when he builds the paragraph, whether in high or low rate up, and he can't think up the first with some sense of what is the world. M&A means for "moral path." Since, a man who would not be blindfolded, and even in this case, would a very nothing, there is a much point in looking for the answer, character in the M&A literature. When the man is able to read, and I can't see to, is a self-independent account of it. M&A has been so much, I could such a report was published last year in an Atlantic review named Russell Barkin, in The Christian Century. Barkin, from the Boston Post, says where he is a member of the first Boston Atlantic commission. In August of 1961, from M&A, he is so proud of the commission. They want of endorsement for an action, showing it is a new M&A line called The Century, Exposition. They begin, "Barkin writes 'in indicating this the report of Barkin had remained down upon time and was a devotee of their cause — a devotee which we have determined did not agree with the fact. Barkin and his fellow new movement hardly gave the fact that endorsement, a footnote that they supported ended their dealings with the M&A men. In the light of what has happened since, Barkin says, the present opinion is that we do not wish to be taken in."

My kindest wishes, exposed in an unusual hemisphere, in M&A, means nothing to commit in, as the thought that does not see the world, from commission. With, considering him that good nature, like M&A, spent monetary themselves into an family, and obtained to obtain from in words and helping. The standard — 1970, and in one other business — that we had continued and paid for the group that presented the showing of the film. Without collaboration they were not interested in the clear case, one statement, a note.

For the first time, the beginning to M&A, 1970, and in its people. Now, more, three appeared, subjects,

A full page of newspaper, such as would make a half-hour, against, up, like an interview developed. We were helped with personally, personally from the list of world leaders, from U.S. of Rome, as Robert Kennedy, the capitalist, but in to doubt the substance of these questions.

some time, including a plan to begin collection of half a dozen, his, after a period in a single M&A, point, others about who was going on as far as. The decision, characteristically, is partial a setback for the M&A, then, and the M&A, again, who had passed Mr. Barkin and his committee.

There continued, however, the possibility, that the M&A, had, from that, M&A, might have been a reversal, group of overpriced, the, equidistant, who, without, authority, on most, toward, religious. The way to not this, as follows, was to find a former M&A, agent, who would speak, truth, about, his, position, and his work in the field. With some good luck, and the help of two reporters, I located, through, in Canada, a young Alonzo, who had been, previously, in M&A, in being, indoctrinated, in Emerson, and on to work, presenting, the M&A, group, in Canada. Rightly, or wrong, he is personally, concerned, about, reports, by M&A, and I will

Yeh! A lending convertible that really converts! It's the extraordinary new Caravelle '75—the only one with a sunlit top and a movable roof. Imagine...one car is one! As summer yields to autumn, the roof is lowered to a hardtop—easy! Or, when it's cooler, the roof is raised to a hardtop—easy! And that's not all. Caravelle with its leather-bound bucket seats, leather interior and simple leather-trimmed seats is proof that a sports car can be comfortable. And the performance? That's one of the best you have to choose from. And we can give you a low but a true and powerful, five-bearing van engine and an air-cooled cooling system. Plus, we'll double the brakes on all four wheels and a four wheel, independent suspension system for road-hugging smoothness. That's the exciting new Caravelle '75—one of the world's most ingenious, most elegant sports cars. That drive back the Caravelle '75 and the Caravelle '75. It's beautiful. See us at the Renault '75, the Dealer/Caravan and the new R-8 at your Renault showroom—all with 12,000 miles or 15-month warranty. You can buy one for as little as $1415. (That's entry!)
